ARvee has a proven track record in communications for a variety of environments. ARvee has developed communication systems for OS/2, DOS and WINDOWS. These systems interface with a broad range of devices through several protocols including RS232 and RS422 (for single and multiple ports), IEEE 488 (for electronics), and IPX and TCP/IP (for local and wide-For instance, ARvee provided Colgatearea networks). Palmolive with an award-winning multiport parallel processing system that simultaneously communicates with more than 60 manufacturing devices in the company's automated factory. This factory management system collects and stores maintenance and production data such as down-time, machine status, and barcode information. Although Colgate-Palmolive generally develops its software internally, the company contracted with ARvee because of the software's complexity and ARvee's expertise. ARvee uses this expertise to go beyond basic information exchange. ARvee provides state of the art mainframe, robotic and information service communications software that places customers at the forefront of their industries.
